Amelia Kieras

Trained in the scientific method, the dissection of frogs, and philosophy at a young age, Amelia nevertheless had difficulty rationalizing her experience with day to day life. She turned to fiction, devouring books by the armful. Finding that she needed an outlet for her wild imagination, she started by making pictures of dreams. Raised in Ann Arbor, Michigan, Amelia received a BFA in Photographic Illustration from R.I.T. in Rochester, New York before relocating to Chicago where she lives with her cat Shoe.

I use both photography and drawing, combined digitally, to create dreamlike scenarios. The images deal with the humor and confusion associated with trying to find meaning and sense in normal life.
